Emaform AG, based in Gontenschwil (AG), has been one of Switzerland's leading manufacturers of plastic housings and technical components made from polyurethane integral rigid foam (IHS) and compact PUR for more than 40 years. With around 60 employees, a modern infrastructure and high production depth, the company serves well-known customers in Switzerland and abroad. CEO and Chairman Jürg Fischer initiated the succession process early to secure the long-term future of the company and its jobs in Gontenschwil.

"With the F.G. Pfister Foundation, we have found the ideal partner to secure the future of Emaform AG sustainably," says Jürg Fischer. "This solution allows us to maintain our independence. The expertise and broad network of companies belonging to the F.G. Pfister Foundation will support Emaform, when needed, in driving innovation and sustainable growth. Ensuring an early and well-organised succession was essential for me – in the interest of our employees, our customers and our region." Fischer will remain CEO, Chairman and minority shareholder.

For the F.G. Pfister Foundation, the acquisition marks another milestone in its long-term commitment to securing sustainable SME succession in Switzerland. Since 2020, the Foundation has acquired eight additional companies through its Holding – always with the aim of creating long-term perspectives, safeguarding jobs and promoting responsible corporate governance.

"Emaform AG is a well-positioned Swiss SME with extensive technical expertise, first-class products and high quality standards," says Rudolf Obrecht, Chairman of the Board of Directors of F.G. Pfister Holding AG. "We invest in companies that operate responsibly and live their values – Emaform meets all these criteria. Our participation ensures that this successful company can continue its story seamlessly – contributing to a strong Swiss industrial base. We are delighted and proud to welcome Emaform to the F.G. Pfister family."

The acquisition of Emaform AG also marks the end of a successful phase under the leadership of Rudolf Obrecht as Chairman of the Board of Directors of F.G. Pfister Holding AG. Roland Zaugg will take over as Chairman in January 2026 and continue the commitment to sustainable succession solutions in Swiss SMEs – a clear sign of stability, continuity and long-term thinking.
